Scenic Trails in Northam

On state land less than a mile from Pierce's Store in North Shrewsbury there are trails ideal for cross-country skiing, snowshoeing, and hiking. The area covers parts of two watersheds and includes the sources of the Cold River flowing to the west, and the Great Roaring Brook flowing to the east. The area is essentially a tableland with gentle contours.

Miles of stone walls running through what is now forest attest to much of the land once being cleared and farmed. One of the trails follows an old town road that is clearly shown on the 1869 map of Shrewsbury. Parallel stone walls mark the road which passes at least one cellar hole and leads up to another cellar near an ancient apple orchard. Barn foundations can also be found along with old meadows slowly being taken over by undergrowth. Also of interest within the area are what appear to be three corrals or large enclosed areas that may have been used to pen sheep. These various reminders of human habitation 150 years ago or more fuel the imagination. The human imprint on the land seems to be a passing thing as the forest surrounds and engulfs what has fallen into ruin.

The Great Roaring Brook flows into the trail area from a large wetland to the north. This area over the years has proven to be prime moose habitat. At times some ski trails have been "potholed" by too much moose use. This writer has shared the trails multiple times with moose, one time watching a very large bull moose running past in snow so deep that it looked like a four legged snow plow, and so close that its heavy breathing could be heard. Beavers have dammed the waters of the Great Roaring Brook in multiple places forming ponds and creating wet conditions that have impacted some trails. One cannot complain because the moose, beavers, and other wildlife are the inhabitants; skiers are just visitors.

The formal trail system began in 2004 when Gary Salmon, a Vermont State Forester and Shrewsbury resident, approached members of the Outing Club about entering into an "adopt-a-trail" agreement to establish and maintain public ski trails on state land formerly the Besseney property. Adjacent to the property is the Plymbsbury Wildlife Management Area where some of the official trails continue and extend east almost to the Shrewsbury-Plymouth town line. Official trails on Forest and Parks land are marked by orange diamonds, and motorized recreational use is prohibited.

The Outing Club enthusiastically agreed to take on this project as a way of encouraging enjoyment of a natural resource and promoting healthy recreational activities on an area that extends north from the Old Plymouth Road to the CCC Road. Most of the trails have been reclaimed from old logging roads and are easy to follow. Some trails have been created by Outing Club members and are more narrow and less straight.

Access to the trails begins at the Old Plymouth Road parking area. Walk about a quarter mile up the road beyond the parking area to the top of the hill. On the left is a gate which marks the beginning of one of the trails. Immediately beyond the gate is a kiosk with a small trail map and information from the Department of Forest and Parks stating that the area is maintained by the Shrewsbury Outing Club

For more information about the trail system or to enjoy a guided tour, call Lee Wilson at 492-3542.

Letter to the Editor

Fellow Shrewsburites,

As I sit by my cozy woodstove on this frigid January evening, I realize it is time to start thinking about Town Meeting Day.

I expect that our educational property taxes will be level with last year (not including effect of income sensitivity). Even though our elementary educational spending is up a little and our equalized pupil counts are down a little, our CLA (common level of appraisal) movement upward will balance these effects out. On the ballot is an article for approving an expenditure budget and an article asking for $10,000 for the Building Sinking Fund; together these would give us a 2.2% increase in educational spending over current year and an $800 decrease over last year (remember we had a decrease in spending this current year). Shrewsbury continues to spend 5% less than statewide average.

In this current year all 4 RSSU districts (Shrewsbury, Clarendon, Wallingford, and Mill River) started the process of consolidating transportation into one operation run by the supervisory union. This saved Shrewsbury 9.5% on its transport budget in this current year and will save us another 18% in next year's budget. Prior to this current year, we always had an article asking for funds for the Bus Sinking Fund. All future bus purchases or leases will be done by the Supervisory Union as part of our consolidated transport operations. Each of the four districts is placing its buses into the consolidated operation, however all the buses are of different value and age and each district has a different ration of bus value per size of district (Mill River has a much higher ratio of bus value per pupil). After vigorous negotiations, we came up with the following equalizing values for each district to contribute: Shrewsbury $14,348, Wallingford $26,877, Clarendon $43,775, Mill River $0. These funds will go toward the purchase of a new bus next year. In subsequent years the acquisition of new buses will come directly from the operating budget.

We have an article on the ballot to pay RSSU the $14,348 from our Bus Sinking Fund. Since we will not need a fund for bus purchases anymore, we are asking to move the remainder to the Building Sinking Fund. The Building fund can make good use of this infusion. Now that we have insulated and tightened up the building we are in the process of improving the efficient circulation of air in the building. This summer we plan to start improvements to the roof.

Time to put another log on the fire. I am looking forward to seeing you at the informational meeting on Monday night March 5. Stay warm and don't forget to vote on March 6.

Legislative Report

Getting back to work in Montpelier is always more satisfying than anticipated. The last year of this biennium should be productive. The fear that the session would be dominated by Irene related legislation has been tempered by several factors. The first is the fast, efficient, tireless, and compassionate efforts by local officials and citizens. I am personally so proud of the response from the citizens of Wallingford, Shrewsbury, and Tinmouth. Secondly, the response from the State, from AOT to ANR, and too many other agencies to list, was immediate and effective and is still ongoing. Thirdly, our Federal delegation worked hard to insure that Vermont received the help from Washington it so badly needed and deserved. Because of these initiatives the cost of the storm—from a state budget perspective—is manageable.

Our first order of business was Irene related. We quickly passed H-461, a bill that reimburses towns the education tax portion of any properties that were abated either as a result of Irene or the earlier Spring flooding. We passed H-505, a bill that allows towns to defer the December education fund payments until Feb. 28. We passed H-515, a bill that holds public agencies and individuals harmless for disclosing tax adjustment information. This was in response to a recent US Supreme Court decision that disallows such disclosure. In response to that decision and for other reasons we are working on a bill to have the State collect education property taxes.

Next month I'll be able to give updates on many initiatives from other committees including Judiciary, where I continue to serve. As always, please afford yourselves the opportunity to participate in our democracy by contacting me with any ideas or concerns at 492-3304 or 345-9187 or at eldredfrench@vermontel.net. Thanks again for your interest and hard work.

FROM THE SELECTBOARD

Hello Neighbors,

Happy 2012 to all. We are knee deep in the budget preparation process. As always your input is welcome.

The temporary bridge on the Frank Lord road was open just in time for Christmas. The Brown Bridge is officially closed. Work has been done in the river bed and around the footing to the bridge itself. The access road on the west side of the bridge is another story. That section of river below the bridge has undercut the bank, causing the hillside to slump. There is a large crack in the middle of the road. Pending evaluation in the spring the ROAD is CLOSED. Please do not circumvent the road barriers.

The transfer station has asked me to pass on the following information. We are still experiencing problems with people dumping stuff after the transfer station attendant has told them not to. No furniture, no mattresses, no construction debris. Please listen to Bob Perry, he is the authority at the dump. It's inconsiderate and it costs the Town (i.e., taxpayers—you) money to track the dumpers down to rectify the situation. Also, when you bring plastic to the dump to be recycled please remove the tops, and plastic necks, if any. And remove any strings or bags that you have transported the items with. Again, it costs us money if a load is rejected due to "contamination." Please be mindful. If you have questions as to how something should be recycled, ask Bob.

Town meeting is just around the corner. You will receive your Town report in mid-February. I encourage you to go through it and join us at the informational meeting the day before voting day.

Home Heating Assistance for Seniors

The State of Vermont's Home Heating Assistance Program might be the way to get some help with winter heating fuel costs. All types of fuel (wood, pellets, electric, oil, gas, kerosene or coal) are included.

To qualify, the gross monthly income limit for all households, regardless of age, is $1,680 for one person and $2,269 for two people. There is no limit on one's resources, or savings. However, interest and dividends on any resources or savings are considered part of the gross income.

You are strongly encouraged to apply by January 31, but February 29 is the final date to apply.

If you are a Senior (age 60+) in Rutland or Bennington county, the Senior HelpLine is ready to assist you with information and the form needed to apply for Vermont Home Heating Assistance. Call 802-786-5991 or 1-800-642-5119. All others should call Vermont Economic Services at 1-800-479-6151 or go to www.dcf.vermont.gov/esd/fuel_assistance.

News from The Transfer Station

Reminder: Please separate metal, glass, plastic, cardboard, and paper from your trash. We're a recycling center and our main expense comes from what goes down the trash chute.

Fluorescent and CFL light bulb disposal:
Place in container in the 2nd bay next to the Reading Room.

Battery disposal:
Place household batteries in container under the glass table next to the chute. Talk to me if you have car batteries to dispose of.

Nails: Be sure to bag nails and other items that can puncture tires. We've had a few flat tires!

Glass jars and bottles:
Please rinse glass jars and bottles that we will be crushing. It keeps the grinder working smoothly and avoids a possible health issue especially in warmer weather.

I really like getting to know more of my neighbors here in Shrewsbury. See you at the station,

SHREWSBURY VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

Since the last writing in the December Times the SVFD has responded to one structure fire, a carbon monoxide alarm, a lift assist request from Regional ambulance, and a mutual aid call from Clarendon Fire.

On Thanksgiving morning a structure fire was quickly doused and a residence was saved because of the mutual aid response from SVFD, Clarendon, and Mt. Holly! Many factors play into how these incidents turn out. First, the owners made a quick call to 911 before the fire had a chance to proceed too far. Secondly, we had recently drilled and discussed how a fire in that area would be attacked. Third, our mutual aid agreements with our neighbors request an immediate response from them when a structure fire is involved. We had plenty of manpower and equipment and we had it quickly!

The carbon monoxide alarm call came on a snowy Friday evening, and SVFD responded with equipment and personnel. This call presented a couple of obstacles. The driveway was at an odd angle to the snow covered downhill road so the SVFD opted to park the truck on the main road and bring the necessary gear in on foot. It was determined to be a faulty CO detector. The homeowner was left with a new detector and an explanation of the findings at the residence.

Occasionally, local fire departments will receive calls from Regional Ambulance to assist when conditions require more personnel. Often many of our members respond. We were able to assist Clarendon Fire when they had a boiler failure in a structure. The mutual aid agreements are key components for our fire departments and our neighboring towns.

In late December our new remote monitored alarm at Northam Station sent a signal of low temperature to our monitoring company. They notified the contact person who quickly found the furnace not working. It was later determined the main controller failed. It was replaced, and the boiler was returned to service averting a possible freeze up.

Although these are different calls, they highlight one common thread. Early notification is important. From the structure fire that we caught in time, to our building not freezing up, fast notification is a key! Find a safe location first and do not hesitate to call 911 if you think you have an emergency.

Responding to emergency calls is a large part of what the SVFD does routinely. There is another component to the department—fundraising. In November we closed out the 12th Annual SVFD Race Pool with a local winner collecting the $4000 grand prize! This has and continues to be a great fundraiser for the SVFD—AND the 13th Annual SVFD Race Pool is now accepting this year's entrants. Pick up an entry form locally or register at www.racingsvfd.com.

Our mailer this year has been overwhelmingly successful! Shrewsbury always finds a way to surprise us! Your donations of over $10K will purchase the latest technology to ensure we can extricate a person from the newer vehicles, quicker.

Lastly, the SVFD recently had a fuel raffle. SVFD members sold tickets for items donated: 100 gallons of heating oil from Johnson Energy, 1 ton of wood pellets from Vt Wood Pellet, and a cord of wood donated by the SVFD members. This effort replaced a coin drop we were unable to hold in September due to Hurricane Irene. It collected $1900!

SO—The SVFD extends a huge THANK YOU to everyone for your continued support and remember

STAY FIRE SAFE!!!

Greetings from the Shrewsbury Library Music Department

This month we have 3 local CDs to add to the collection. Two are from purely a cappella (a favorite of mine) vocal bands that have Shrewsbury members and the third hails from way over in the Ira/Tinmouth area.

Let's start with Percolatin' by Houseblend. This is a group of 22 some-odd singers that rehearse in Saxton's River. Two of the members are from our great community, Vicky Arthur and Jack Hoffman—see if you can pick out their voices as they are both featured prominently. Favorites are each of the gospel tinged tunes, Dubula, Everyday People (great arrangement), Java Jive and MLK.

Next in the collection is The Washed Up Beulah Band, a quartet of young Vermont men. They perform '30's and '40's Jubilee style music and are all veterans of Village Harmony. Again, another Shrewsbury product is featured prominently in the band, Luke Hoffman (he signed the copy for the Library©). Also are Wheaton Squire, Arthur Davis and Kenny Shimizu. Gospel music to be sure, but all ears will love hearing it. Favorite cuts include: Nobody Knows, Nobody Cares, Where Shall I Be, Trouble All about My Soul, and Lord, Don't Turn Your Child Away. Try to resist moving to these tunes and singing along—you won't be able to.

The final offering for this edition is Duane Carelton's latest, Rust. I call Duane a good friend and am always interested in what he is putting together. This is a rock offering to be sure. Check out In a Nowhere Town, You Can't Lose What you Never Had, Runaway Romeo and God Never Needed a Gun.

I think you will enjoy these additions to our collection. Next time look for a collection of Classical music for your listening edification.

Hello from the Kids Korner,

I hope everyone's holidays were safe and fun. As I mentioned back in November, I'm looking to start a new program that I heard about from a librarian in Maine. Each month a pre-selected book can be picked up at the library in the beginning of the month to be read during the month. Then we will watch the same movie at the end of the month and compare/contrast it with the book. February's selection is How to Train Your Dragon by Cressida Cowell. Please stop in early to pick up your copy of the book (which, by the way, you may keep). The movie will be shown on Saturday at 10:15am on February 25, 2012. Refreshments will be served! The turnout for this program will determine how often we will meet in the future.

It's that time of year again when I'm looking for anyone interested in helping with the summer reading programs. This year's theme is "Night." So if anyone is interested in presenting a program or has an idea for a program, please contact me by leaving a message at the front desk.

Thanks for reading and hope to see you at the library!

We, Raoul and Lisa Lapre, would like to share this with all of you. We were married in 1961. Raoul was born in Mount Holly and Lisa was born in Quebec, Canada, where she graduated as a nurse in 1961. We were married that same year.

We have three wonderful children. Claude Lapre is our Marine we are proud of, married to Diane Eaton. Lynn Lapre married Eddie Dipietro; Lynn has a daughter, Wendy, 25. Lee Roy Lapre married Linda Falco and they have a daughter, Breanna, 11. We also have 7 step-grandchildren and 5 step great-grandchildren we love dearly.

Our children celebrated us for our 50th with friends from all over, and with family, including Lisa's 12 brothers and sisters from Canada!

HAPPY NEW YEAR 2012

Still celebrating Shrewsbury's 250th Anniversary, I offer two poems that appeared in the 2008 and 2009 Memories Calendars paying homage to our wonderful Town.

Shrewsbury, Vermont

by Trustee Fran Patten

There's a place on a hill
That is peaceful and still,
Wildlife roams
Among the homes,
Spring awakens the nascent earth
Flowers arrive with color and mirth
Summers are warm and nights so clear
You can reach for the stars they seem so near Autumn's spent leaves of brown and gold
Flutter and skitter avoiding the cold
Winters are white and covered in lace
While challenging winds nip at your face
Waters are clear, pleasant and sweet
To quench your thirst or bathe your feet,
It's a place that has everything one could want
Welcome home to Shrewsbury, Vermont

At Home in Shrewsbury, Vermont

by Margaret B. Patten

(former founding member and now deceased)

Pastures green and waters flowing,
Wooded hills and gardens growing,
Near and far the cocks are crowing
– The way it used to be.
Dirt road winding through the valley,
Village store where neighbors tarry,
Hired help to fetch and carry,
– Vermont was home to me.
Cutting corn and baling hay,
Milking cows at break of day
(more cows than people, we used to say)
– The way it used to be.
Vermont is different now-a-days
With shopping malls and broad highways
And visitors from far away
– But still it's home to me.
Nothing can shrink the mountain's height
Or dim the air, so clear, so bright,
Or spoil my comfort and delight
– Of home – my home – to me.

IN MEMORIAM

Longtime friend of the Historical Society Danny Korngiebel, age 84, passed away on December 7, 2011. Danny was a Selectman for the Town of Shrewsbury in 1971, was a state representative and served with the Volunteer Fire Dept. of Shrewsbury. He is also remembered for the sheep and donkeys at his home site on Route 103. Danny knew all about farm tools and often came to the Society's help in naming them. I purchased two sheep skins from Danny back when my grandson was born in 1985. Our grandson still has his. I used the other in our dog Fritz's bed, and it is now a cuddly place for our cat Fred to dream on. The Society sends their condolences to Danny's family, Gloria and Mike Benson.

The Shrewsbury Community Church

Worship: Sundays at 10:00 AM

From the Pastor's Desk:

One day I was walking down the street in Portland, Maine while headed to the seminary for class when I saw him coming in my direction. I had seen this man before although I didn't know his name. I had seen him on the busy street and fortunately could sneak past him while others had to deal with his outstretched hand. Only today, no one was near and I couldn't avoid him.

I didn't have any spare change on me. I had taken all the change out of my purse the night before and reasoned with myself that I couldn't give to everyone. As he approached I noticed that his coat looked like something I certainly would have thrown away a long time ago. It was torn, quite ragged, in fact, and in much need of a cleaning. What I wanted to do was cross the street, but that would be too obvious. And I definitely didn't want to make eye contact with him. I had learned when I spent a year studying in New York City that you didn't look "these kinds of folks" in the eye.

"Good morning," he said. Unfortunately, I had no choice but to look up. When I did, I was quite surprised to see a warm, smiling face looking directly at me. "Isn't it a beautiful day?" he asked.

I quickly reached into my purse. "I just bought a couple of protein bars," I said. "Would you like one?" He accepted my offer, smiled, and said, "God bless you."

It was only a few seconds later as we each went our way that it dawned on me that God had indeed blessed me. God had used the man's warm smile and pleasant words to wake me up and help me realize that I can give to others not because I have to but because I want to. May we all choose to give often to help each other, especially those in need.

With this in mind, you may want to join the Shrewsbury Community Church on February 4 at 7:00pm. We will be co-sponsoring a concert with the Salt River Review Band. The concert is free although a "free will offering" will be taken. Members of the church will be selling refreshments during intermission. Proceeds from the refreshments and a percentage of the "free will offering" will go to the church's "Helping Hand Fund" for assistance to Shrewsbury residents in need. We hope you'll join us for the music and in the process help us to reach out to those in our community who are in need. See you on February 4th!

Shrewsbury Afterschool Program/Camp SMS

January has found all of our campers so busy and involved with some great workshops! We have been doing American Sign Language, Basic Spanish, Bocce, yoga, science, taste testing, clay works, mask making, community service, friendship bracelets...the list is just too long to mention! In February, we are excited to announce that February 14th, 15th, and 16th will be Winter Carnival at Camp SMS. We are planning some fun outdoor activities on those 3 days as well as a few indoor activities as well. If you would like to volunteer or participate on those 3 days, please call me at 492-3435...we would love some great ideas and extra sets of hands to make it a fantastic winter carnival!

4th/5th/6th grade:

With the new year, we've had several young authors published in the Rutland Herald and even the Brattleboro Reformer. Each Monday you may glimpse one, or even several, of our budding Shrewsbury writers in our local papers. On any given Wednesday, you might see a line of blue bins marching down the hill as students bring the school's recycled materials to the transfer station. Fourth, fifth, sixth graders know the importance of recycling to our school and town communities, but they also understand that more is needed to keep our environment healthy. The children are already thinking forward to the first Saturday in May and this year's Green-Up Day. They have each created a poster for the annual Green-Up Vermont contest, hoping to inspire others to join in this essential community event.

NEWS FROM MILL RIVER

We had hoped to hold the Mill River budget to no increase, but that is not to be. The good news is assessed taxes will go down somewhat.

Continually rising expenses have overcome our best intentions. The faculty for the current year agreed to forgo any increases; next year they will receive a 1% increase. Health insurance is projected to rise by 4%. Next year across the state schools are showing budget increases from 1% to 6%. The Mill River budget will increase by 2.5%

We are able to decrease taxes because we carried a large and unanticipated surplus of $435,000 into this current year, and the last of the federal stimulus funds of $112,000 for teacher compensation will be added to next year's budget. Together, this allows us to absorb a portion of the increase and not pass it directly onto taxpayers. Assessed taxes to Shrewsbury will decrease by 0.4%.

The finance committee addressed some of the large anticipated expenses while we had the funds to do so. The wooden bleachers in the gym are 35 years old and need to be replaced. Complete replacement cost will be upwards of $87,000, and we opted to replace half the seats next year. The driver's education car needs to be replaced for about $20,000. Finally, in July 2012 the school will be connected to a new fiber optic line which will ensure both high speed internet service and increased traffic capability. We will be investing $80,000 in these one-time upgrades.

The Annual Meeting of Mill River Union School District #40 has been set for Wednesday, February 15 at 7:00pm in the library.

The supervisory union, which has now taken over busing for all four schools, continues to look at consolidating school bus service. The first year of the busing consolidation has gone well. Routes were kept intact as the administration and busing committee wanted to learn about managing busing for four schools. With a consolidation of routes, next year we will be able to use two fewer buses.

Many exciting things are coming up at school in February—

The Green Mountain Music District Festival: February 3 at The College of St. Joseph. The Middle School Chorus, Middle School Jazz Ensemble, High School Band, and High School Strings will be rehearsing with conductors throughout the day and will be performing a concert at 7:00pm at the college. Mill River will have 11 vocal musicians and 11 instrumental musicians representing our school at this festival. Tickets for the concert will be available at the door.

Mathcounts: We are proud of our school's participation in Mathcounts, a national program designed to promote mathematical problem solving in the middle grades. Students in 7th and 8th grade who attend MRUHS and 6th grade students from schools that send students to Mill River meet weekly after school to practice problem solving strategies and learn about interesting topics in math. Over 20 students participate weekly under the direction of Mr. Richard Barker and Mrs. Anna Tally. On February 4 schools from the southwest region of Vermont will compete at the Chapter Competition held at Castleton State College. Vermont Mathcounts is sponsored by the Vermont Society of Professional Engineers, and the competition at Castleton is run by volunteers from General Electric. The Countdown Round is open to the public and will take place at about 12:20pm in the Jeffords Auditorium.

The Mill River Chamber Singers: Singers will be performing Singing Valentines on Valentine's Day. You may order a valentine directly from a Chamber Singer or contact Kristin Cimonetti directly via email at kcimonetti@rssu.org for information. Valentines are $10 if delivered at MRUHS and $15 if delivered in the RSSU district/Rutland County. The students may not deliver valentines beyond this distance. You must pay for the valentine when placing an order.

The American Choral Directors Assoc. Eastern Division Conference: Two Mill River vocalists were chosen to perform in the Honors Choruses, and only eight Vermont students were chosen for this high honor. Maia Plesent was chosen for the High School Honors Chorus and Lillian Pritchard was chosen for the Latino Honors Chorus. They are very excited to sing with peers from the 10 North-Eastern States.

Poetry Out Loud: All students in Grades 9-12 are eligible to compete at MRU on February 16 for the privilege of being our school's representative at the state competition, but juniors in Mr. Bruno's English classes participate in the process as part of the curriculum. Students must memorize and present a poem from an extensive list on the national website.

NEWS FROM PIERCE'S STORE

We've been busy at the store over the holidays. We completed our end of the year inventory and as a result have a great sale on products we are discontinuing or are past date. We've reduced the prices by 35% in most cases—so stop in and see some of the deals. Items include chips, salsa, pickles, canned soups, vegetables, and fruit. There are snack bars, cookies, candy and even beer and champagne. We also have a handful of health and beauty products. Come help us clear out some of last year and make room for new products in 2012.

We've added a couple of new products including Seventh Generation Laundry Soap. In ethnic foods, we now carry Organic Udon and Soba noodles, stuffed grape leaves, Nori paper for sushi, masa harina, and hominy. In our bulk section you can find organic sesame seeds, nutritional yeast, and veggie pasta spirals. We've also added a few new wines. For whites we added Fat Monk Chardonnay from the Central Coast of California, and from the south of France you can try The French House Chardonnay. If reds are more your style we are now carrying 7 Deadly Zins and Gnarly Head Pinot Noir. Rob is also offering something new—a Mushroom and Leek Frittata, a perfect savory breakfast option, that can also be eaten during lunch. Feel free to warm this treat up in our microwave.

Now that I've got the hang of things, I'm planning to run a few sales each month too, so stop in the store in February and see what kind of deals you can get! You might also notice that we're adjusting many of our prices. Although some things have gone up, you should notice the majority of grocery items are coming down. Although we can't compete with the big stores on all items, you might be surprised at how many of our items are comparable.

We have a variety of fresh produce in the store including: Romaine, Green Leaf and Mesclun Greens, Mushrooms, Leeks, Carrots, Eggplant, Tomatoes, Green and Red Peppers, Zucchini,

Vermont Communities in a Digital Age

The e-Vermont Community Broadband Project is working across Vermont to help communities solve local issues with 21st century tools. On February 16 e-Vermont will host Vermont Communities in a Digital Age to highlight some of the projects taking place and bring leaders and learners together to share what they have discovered so far. Topics include mobilizing community resources during emergencies, a hands-on lab about digital tools for business, a showcase of how technology is expanding the classroom for 4-6th graders, and a preview of how town meetings can reach a wider audience. The all-day workshop on February 16 takes place at Vermont Technical College in Randolph Center. Registration is $20 and includes course offerings, refreshments and lunch. For a complete schedule and to pre-register online visit the e-Vermont website at www.e4vt.org, call 802-859-3090, or e-mail joanna@snellingcenter.org.

“The whole day will offer participants new ideas about how digital tools can be used to create jobs, reinvent schools, attract visitors, improve civic involvement, and enliven Vermont communities,” stated conference coordinator Joanna Cummings. Anne Galloway is the keynote speaker. Anne is an award-winning journalist and founder/editor of VTDigger.org, a statewide news website dedicated to coverage of Vermont politics, consumer affairs, business and public policy. The e-Vermont Community Broadband Project is led by the Vermont Council on Rural Development, and is supported in part by a $2.5 million stimulus grant from the U.S. Dept of Commerce.

New Video is “Thank You” Card

After Irene: Vermont Thanks You is available online at www.vtfloodresponse.org/thankyou

A new video, released by the Vermont Community Foundation, says thank you to everyone who contributed to Irene relief and recovery on behalf of all Vermonters. The short message is drawn from storm footage and recent interviews with flood victims, local heroes, and state leaders. The Foundation is distributing the video to share this message of gratitude with people across the state and beyond who have helped heal Vermont.

Since the storm struck, the Community Foundation has collected more than $3.8 million in charitable contributions and has been an active partner in post-Irene relief and recovery efforts, working closely with donors and other organizations to create and manage a number of Irene-related charitable funds.

Visit www.vtfloodresponse.org to learn more about grants available and grants awarded. It also has a useful resources section with a comprehensive list of flood resources and information about Irene recovery work being done by other organizations.

The Vermont Community Foundation has been helping donors give to the causes and organizations they care about since 1986. It is Vermont’s largest homegrown grantmaker. Together, its family of over 600 funds provides more than $10 million in grants per year. Visit www.vermontcf.org or call 802-388-3355 for more information.

Shrewsbury Nature and Gardening Tidbits

Dec. 3 – A Red Bellied Woodpecker has been making a daily visit to the array of bird feeders outside my kitchen windows. I know that this bird is a female because the splash of scarlet is slightly smaller than that on the male. The red on its belly (hence the name) is hardly a trace of reddish feathers and not often seen. She seems to relish the mixture of lard and peanut butter that I stuffed into holes in a slender hanging log. These birds are also known to love whole peanuts in the shell. Thirty years ago the Red Bellied Woodpecker would have been a great rarity here in Shrewsbury, but with the gradually changing weather over the years and our winters getting warmer, this species is advancing further north. It is not uncommon now to see them even at our higher elevations.

Dec. 6 – With the outside temperature at 47 degrees, the lawn is distinctly greener this morning following overnight rain. I find yellow pansies, half hidden in dead leaves, little drops of sunshine, on this gloomy morning.

Dec. 7 – I pulled off the plastic sheeting from the beds of greens to have a look and found them in fine shape. How satisfying it is to have fresh lettuce, spinach, kale, collards and mustards so late in the season.

Dec. 17 – The track story in the thin layer of snow has left me puzzled. Two sets of ruffed grouse imprints met the tracks of what appeared to be an ermine. What followed were feather imprints and a broad drag mark where one of the birds may have been hauled off into the dense cover of balsams.

Dec. 31 – A damp, murky start to the annual Rutland Co. Audubon's Christmas Bird Count. Throughout the day we counted the more common winter residents at feeders and along the roadside, along with less frequently seen species such as Brown Creepers and Golden Crowned Kinglets. The biggest surprise was the record number of American Robins seen at nearly every stop. However, the fewer total number of birds and species of birds might be attributed to the excellent crop of natural fruits, berries and seeds this winter.

Jan. 10 – With stray snowflakes flying in the breeze, a walk in the meadow today is tricky. The hard frozen ground is lumpy and is like walking on beach cobbles. The farm pond is solid and snowless. Fringed gentian stalks, tan, dry and erect, vibrate in the wind. Such efficient seed dispersal structures, their open pods are now empty of their fine seed.

Jan. 15 – While out skiing in Plymbsbury this afternoon, with the mountains all white with snow and frost, I heard and saw American Robins in a clearing.
